14 vs. ) DETERMINATION OF 15 ARLENE DAYTON, ) HEARING OFFICER RE 16 Respondent. ) STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS ) [Labor Code §1700.44(c)]

17 This matter arose pursuant to the provisions of the 18 Labor Code ("L.C.") §§1700 et seq., upon filing of a petition 19 under Labor Code §1700.44 by Joanna Kerns ("KERNS") with the 20 Labor Commissioner on April 3, 1990. Initial hearings on the 21 controversy were held on September 20, 1991, September 27, 1991, 22 November 15, 1991 and January 17, 1992. Petitioner KERNS was 23 represented by LAVELY & SINGER, JOHN H. LAVELY, JR. and JOSEPH D.
24 SCHLEIMER, and Respondent Arlene Dayton ("DAYTON") was repre-
25 sented by ALAN G. DOWLING, Of Counsel to SHAPIRO, POSELL &
26 CLOSE. JOHN T. REVIS, Attorney for the State Labor Commissioner
27 served as Hearing Officer as assigned by the Labor Commissioner.

3 INTRODUCTION

4 On or about January 1, 1977, KERNS and DAYTON executed a 5 "Personal Management Agreement" ("PMA") which expressly stated
6 that DAYTON would serve KERNS as a personnel manager and career
7 advisor but not as a "talent agent". The original contract
8 provided a percentage compensation based upon KERNS' gross income 9 earned as an entertainer. It also provided that after the 10 contract ended, commissions would continue upon earnings based 11 upon contracts and agreements entered into during the term of the 12 PMA. The original PMA was to run for three (3) years (thus 13 expiring on December 31, 1979) but the parties continued as 14 though there had been a formal extension. On or about January 1, 15 1982 another PMA was executed which contained the following 16 provision:

17 "You also agree to pay us fifteen percent (15%) of 18 such gross monies after the expiration of the term 19 with respect to any engagements, contracts and 20 agreements entered into or substantially nego-
21 tiated during the term hereof in connection with 22 any of the aforementioned activities and upon all 23 extensions, modifications, amendments, renewals 24 and substitutions thereof."

25 The second PMA would have expired on December 31, 1984 but the 26 parties continue to treat the relationship as though that con-27 tract was in full force and effect. On or about January 1, 1986, the parties signed a letter agreement, reciting the PMA as "dated January 1, 1977 which expired on December 31, 1985" and thus extending it for three (3) years, until December 31, 1988.

1 The PMA was not renewed after December 31, 1988, al-
2 though KERNs continued to pay commissions for about ten (10)
3 months thereafter. After the commissions stopped, on or about 4 February 7, 1990, DAYTON filed a complaint for breach of contract
5 in the Los Angeles Superior Court, case no. C751716. On or about 6 March 30, 1990, KERNs filed a motion to stay proceedings until 7 the Labor Commissioner determined the validity of the contract
8 under jurisdiction granted by Labor Code §§1700 et seq. Before 9 that motion was heard and granted, on April 3, 1990 KERNs filed a 10 petition with the Labor Commissioner alleging the PMA was void be-11 cause DAYTON had acted as a "talent agency" (L.C. §1700.4) with-12 out the required license (L.C. §1700.23). KERNs asked for return 13 of all monies paid under the PMA. In response, DAYTON denied all 14 the petitioner's allegations and pleaded a number of affirmative 15 defenses, the significant one being that the proceeding before 16 the Labor Commissioner was barred because none of the alleged 17 violations occurred within the one (1) year period prior to 18 filing the petition (L.C. §1700.44[c]).

19 In February, 1991, the present hearing officer was 20 assigned the case and the file transferred to Van Nuys from San 21 Francisco. At that time there was pending a motion by petitioner 22 to take out-of-state depositions. The motion was denied under 23 the requirements of Code of Regulations, Title 8, §12028 because 24 the purpose of the depositions as stated by petitioner was for 25 "information-gathering (sic) opportunities", thus their purpose 26 was for discovery and not for use as evidence.

27 ///

1           The first hearing date set was July 19, 1991. The matter 2 was continued a number of times at the request of petitioner to 3 accomodate KERNs' TV shooting schedule.

4           At the first actual hearing held on September 20, 1991,
5 DAYTON contended that KERNs' petition alleged no dates to show
6 that alleged violations had occurred within the one (1) year pe-
7 riod of the Labor Code §1700.44(c), and argued that this unneces-8 sary delay was costly and prejudicial to the rights of DAYTON. At 9 that time the hearing officer decided to proceed to give petition-10 er opportunity to present evidence that Labor Code §1700.44(c) did 11 not apply.

12           By the end of the third hearing on November 15, 1991, the 13 transcript totalled 559 pages with 76 exhibits, and petitioner had 14 presented almost all of her case except for the testimony of KERNs 15 herself. After one-half of the fourth hearing on January 17, 16 1992, when no testimony or evidence had been offered regarding any 17 event in connection with this controversy occurring within the one 18 year prior to April 3, 1990, the hearing officer asked KERNs attor-19 ney if there was any evidence whatsoever of any violation that oc-20 curred within the one year prior to April 3, 1990. When the reply 21 was negative, the hearing officer instructed the parties to pre-22 pare and submit briefs on the issue of statute of limitations, and 23 advised that a determination of that affirmative defense would be 24 made before further proceedings were held.

25           Both parties have submitted extensive and exceptionally 26 well prepared briefs. DAYTON's argument, basically, is that none 27 of the events occurred within the one (1) year limitation period.

1 KERNs argues that the evidence shows that DAYTON acted as an un-
2 licensed talent agent, making the PMA null and void. Thus, ar-
3 gues KERNs, this is a defense raised in the Superior Court case 4 in defense of a breach of contract suit, and as a defense is not 5 denied by virtue of the Statute of Limitations. Both arguments 6 are well-taken and thoroughly supported by case citations. How-7 ever, one misses the point completely.

9 DISCUSSION

10 Without in any way deciding the merits of this contro-
11 versy, particularly since KERNs has not completed her presenta-12 tion and DAYTON has had no opportunity to present any evidence, 13 it does appear that the arrangement commenced as an undisputed 14 personal management agreement which became a much closer personal 15 relationship than that of principal and agent. This is shown by 16 the informal way in which the contract was executed, amended and 17 extended.

18 Thus far, the evidence also would seem to prove that 19 after a number of years, about nine (9) to be exact, DAYTON
20 started actively procuring and negotiating for KERNs' services, 21 conduct that would clearly be covered by Labor Code §1700.4 and 22 require a talent agency license (L.C. §1700.23). But all of that 23 type of conduct ended by the time the PMA agreement ended, and 24 none of the services so negotiated and/or completed occurred 25 after December 31, 1988.

27 ///

1           The real controversy here, stems from the fact that in 2 1985 KERNS signed a contract to appear in the television series
3 "GROWING PAINS", and that series and those services have con-4 tinued ever since and apparently will continue into the future.

5           Under the provisions of the last PMA, DAYTON was enti-
6 tled to her commission based on the compensation KERNS receives 7 and will receive in the future from "GROWING PAINS". KERNS, 8 understandably, does not wish to continue paying a fee to a 9 personal manager who no longer provides any services.

10           Nothing in the evidence shows that DAYTON in any way
11 acted as unlicensed talent agent in procuring the "GROWING PAINS" 12 contract. However, the evidence does indicate that DAYTON acted 13 as an unlicensed talent agent for six (6) or seven (7) other pro-14 jects between 1986 and 1988 and was paid a commission therefor.
15 Assuming that evidence is correct and un rebuttable, the issue
16 then is whether or not the entire PMA agreement(s) which lasted 17 for twelve (12) years is void and unenforceable because of a few 18 unlicensed actions which occurred between 1986 and 1988, particu-
19 larly when most of those actions actually benefited KERNS as well 20 as DAYTON.

21           While some of the evidence indicates that in at least 22 one case, a major arrangement procured and negotiated by DAYTON 23 was eventually lost because of what might be described as conduct 24 prejudicial to the interests of KERNS, that one incident hardly 25 constitutes a basis for negating at least nine (9) years of bene-26 ficial counseling and completely legal activity.

27 ///

1 It is clear that at least some of the incidents that 2 occurred between 1986 and 1988 appear to have been unlicensed
3 talent agent activity for which compensation should be returned 4 to KERNS, but none occurred within the one (1) year prior to 5 April 3, 1990, and thus the Labor Commissioner has no jurisdic-
6 tion to order such reimbursement.

7 The only other fact that might prevent the statute of 8 limitations (L.C. §1700.44[c]) from running would be if DAYTON
9 had acted as an unlicensed talent agent to procure the "GROWING 10 PAINS" contract, because it is DAYTON's complaint to seek current 11 compensation based on that current income from "GROWING PAINS" 12 that is the real controversy between the parties. However even 13 KERNS' attorney LAVELY makes no such claim, having expressly 14 stated in his opening statements (Hearing Transcript, Volume 1, 15 page 18, lines 13 through 24):

16
17 "... it would be unconscionable to have a 18 determination that Arlene Dayton is entitled to 19 commission, gross compensation, each year through-20 out the series, even though the management agree-21 ment expired December 31, 1988, even though Arlene 22 Dayton hasn't rendered services thereafter and had 23 no responsibility in procuring Joanna Kerns's in-24 volvement on that ["GROWING PAINS"] series.

25 We're not saying that she was obligated to be 26 a procuring cause of that series, and, in fact, if 27 she had been, it would have been a violation of the Labor Code; but the point is that she wasn't a procuring cause .... [emphasis added]

28 The situation here is almost a replica of that which oc-
29 curred in BANK OF AMERICA et al. v. ERIN FLEMING et al., Labor
30 Commissioner case No. 1098 ASC MP-432 (1982). There, respondent 31 FLEMING was as much personal confidant of Groucho Marx as a per-

1 KERN'S' attorney expressly stated that DAYTON did not 2 procure, and thus could not have acted as an unlicensed talent
3 agent in the procurement of the "GROWING PAINS" contract. There-4 fore, the issue of whether current compensation should be paid 5 DAYTON based on that current series cannot be considered as 6 justification for staying the requirements of L.C. §1700.44(c).

7 The petitioner's argument that the statute of limita-8 tions does not apply to a "defense" (i.e., KERN'S' defense in 9 Superior Court in a breach of contract action) is refuted by 10 petitioner's own brief ("PB"). As cited on page 16, commencing 11 at line 17:

12 "A defense is never barred by the statute of 13 limitations so long as the main action itself is 14 timely."

15 BULL v. UNITED STATES (1935) 295 U.S. 247, 16 55 S.Ct. 695. [emphasis added]

17 Further, referring to petitioner's brief, page 23, 18 commencing at line 1:

19 "[We] do not think the statute operates to bar 20 reference to the commission of questions raised by 21 way of defense in suits which are themselves 22 timely brought."

23 UNITED STATES v. WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROAD COMPANY
24 (1956) 352 U.S. 59, 77 S.Ct. 161.
25 [emphasis added]

26 Thus we have the basic situation that the Labor Commis-27 sioner has no jurisdiction to determine the validity of the ori-28 ginal personal management contract as amended and extended, be-29 cause it expired on December 31, 1988, more than a year before 30 the petition was filed (see PB page 23, commencing at line 26).

1 Furthermore, the Labor Commissioner has no jurisdiction over 2 restitutions for alleged unlicensed talent agency activities 3 since none of those occurred within one year prior to filing the 4 petition. (See PB page 9, commencing at line 11).

5 Lastly, the Labor Commission has no jurisdiction to 6 decide if current commissions are owed under the PMA condition
7 subsequent since they clearly do not involve any unlicensed
8 talent agency activity on the part of DAYTON, and thus would be a 9 matter for the Superior Court to decide in the breach of contract 10 action.

11 Accordingly, it is determined this petition should be 12 dismissed under the provisions of Labor Code §1700.44(c) which 13 states:

14 "(c) No action or proceeding shall be brought 15 pursuant to this chapter with respect to any 16 violation which is alleged to have occurred more 17 than one year prior to commencement of the action or proceeding."

18 Nothing in this determination prejudices the rights of 19 KERNS to raise all of her defenses, legal and equitable, in the 20 Superior Court case now pending.
