9 Attorney for the State Labor Commissioner

11 BEFORE THE LABOR COMMISSIONER
12 STATE OF CALIFORNIA

13 AYLVA MARZOLF,

14 Petitioner,

15 v.

16 LYNN VENTURELLA, an individual,
17 THE PINKERTON MODEL & TALENT
18 COMPANY, LLC, a California Limited
19 Liability Company,

20 Respondent.

21 NO. TAC- 29364

22 DETERMINATION
23 OF CONTROVERSY

24 This matter, a Petition to Determine Controversy under Labor Code §1700.44, came on 25 regularly for hearing in Los Angeles, California, before the undersigned attorney for the Labor
26 Commissioner assigned to hear the case. Petitioner AYALA MARZOLF (hereinafter referred to as 27 “Ms. Marzolf”) appeared by her attorney Steven B. Sitglitz . Respondents LYNN VENTURELLA
28 (hereinafter referred to as Ms. Venturella) and THE PINKERTON MODEL & TALENT COMPANY, LLC (hereinafter referred to as “Pinkerton”) appeared at the commencement of the hearing by Ms. Venturella, representing both herself and Pinkerton. In further proceedings at the continued hearing, both respondents appeared by their attorney Drew Sherman.

1 FINDINGS OF FACT

2 1. AYALA MARZOLF is an artist, as that term is defined in Labor Code Section 1700.4,
3 and rendered services as an actor in advertisements for Dentyne, Taco Bell, Apple, Speedo,
4 Volkswagen and Adidas.

5 2. LYNN VENTURELLA was a licensed talent agency within the definition set forth in 6 Labor Code Section 1700.4 during the time relevant to this action.

7 3. Ms. Marzolf was managed by Total Talent Management, a business jointly owned by 8 Nick Roses and Ms. Venturella's husband, Richard Venturella. Ms. Marzolf was properly paid for 9 the work she performed on the Dentyne and Taco Bell advertisements. The wages due from those 10 two jobs were tendered to Total Talent Management (TTM) and that company properly distributed
11 the commissions due to the respondents, with the remainder of the wages going to petitioner, . At 12 some point, TTM ceased doing business, after which time Ms. Marzolf contracted with former TTM
13 partner Nick Roses, who thereafter represented Ms. Marzolf as her manager.

14 4. By agreement among Ms. Marzolf, Total Talent Management, Nick Roses and the 15 respondents, wages Ms. Marzolf earned for union jobs was to be paid to TTM, with wages for non-16 union jobs to be paid to the respondents. Those non-union jobs included the work performed on the 17 Apple, Speedo, Volkswagen and Adidas advertisements. The wages for those jobs (a total of six 18 separate jobs) were tendered to the respondents, and are at issue in this proceeding.

19 5. Ms. Venturella conceded that the respondents owe Ms. Marzolf $1,480.36 in wages, but 20 asserts that amount was calculated taking into account amounts she deducted from Ms. Marzolf's
21 wages which she paid to TTM for amounts she believed to be due to that company for management
22 services TTM provided for the petitioner. The respondents did not provide either their client Ms.
23 Marzolf, or the hearing officer in this matter, any accounting for the withholdings or basis for those 24 amounts to be paid to a third party on Ms. Marzolf's behalf.

1 1700.26 and 1700.27 to maintain such records, to make them available to the Labor Commissioner
2 during reasonable hours, and to furnish them upon the Labor Commissioner's request. The 3 subpoena was properly and timely served upon the respondents, but the respondent failed to provide
4 the records requested.

6 In response to the hearing officer's inquiry regarding production of the subpoenaed
7 documents, Ms. Venturella initially responded that she was not she did not understand the subpoena
8 and was not aware that the subpoena required the respondents to produce documents at the hearing.
9 Later on in her testimony, Ms. Venturella stated that she decided not to bring the documents because
10 she was concerned that to do so would violate a confidentiality agreement between her husband
11 Richard Venturella on behalf of TTM and Nick Roses, Mr. Venturella's former partner in that 12 business. This contradictory testimony leads this hearing officer to doubt Ms. Venturella's
13 credibility and to give little weight to her statements in every other aspect of the case.

15 The documentary evidence and testimony in this case show that Ms. Marzolf earned
16 $6,670.45 for the six jobs at issue, that those amounts were received by the respondents and retained
17 by the respondents beyond the time allowed by statute. The most recent of the earned wages due 18 should have been paid by November 2, 2012, but were retained. The evidence also shows that the 19 respondents have paid Ms. Marzolf a total of $2,580.00 toward those wages earned, leaving a 20 balance due of $4,090.45. Interest on that amount to August 1, 2014 is $715.20.

22 The evidence also shows that the respondents' failure to disburse the artist's funds within the 23 time required by Labor Code Section 1700.25(a) is a willful violation of that statute. The factor of 24 willfulness is found as a result of evidence offered by both parties in the proceeding showing that the 25 respondents were utterly lacking not only in their failure to keep proper records and account to the 26 petitioner under the Talent Agency Act, but even apart from that statutory requirement, to maintain 27 the kind of financial records accepted in common business practice. The respondents were 28

1 contemptible stewards of their client's money, and were utterly unresponsive not only to her
2 counsel's proper demands for an accounting, but also failed to produce the records subpoenaed by
3 the Labor Commissioner.

4 As a consequence of the willful violation of the requirement to timely disburse amounts held
5 in trust for the petitioner, the Labor Commissioner awards Ms. Marzolf, as the prevailing artist, her
6 reasonable attorney fees, pursuant to Labor Code Section 1700.25(e)(1). Following a statement of 7 decision, the parties were directed to submit evidence and argument regarding the award of attorney
8 fees. In response to that direction, counsel for the petitioner submitted a declaration setting forth a
9 basis for petitioner's request for 35 hours of attorney fees at the rate of $375.00 per hour. The 10 respondent did not submit a response to that request. Accordingly, petitioner is awarded $13,125.00
11 in attorney fees. The petitioner also requested an award of her costs in this proceeding; however,
12 such an award is not supported by the provisions of the Talent Agency Act, and is therefore denied.

15 16 CONCLUSION

17 The Labor Commissioner finds that Respondents Lynn Venturella and The Pinkerton Model
18 & Talent Company, LLC unlawfully withheld wages due to Petitioner Ayla Marzolf, and that the 19 failure to pay those wages is a willful violation of the Labor Code Section 1700.44(a).

20 Accordingly, Petitioner is awarded $4,090.45 in wages. Interest is awarded on the wages at 21 the legal rate from November 2, 20012 in the amount of $715.20. In addition, as a result of a finding
22 of willfulness under Labor Code Section 1700.25(e), Petitioner is awarded reasonable attorney fees
23 in the amount of $13,125.00.
24

25 The total amount of the award is $17,930.65.
