NOTE: The name and address as shown on all forms and documents submitted must be exactly the same. Any difference in either name or address will delay the issuance of a license.

Duration of License (Labor Code section 1700.10):

The license when first issued shall run to the next birthday of the applicant, and each license shall then be renewed within the 30 days preceding the licensee's birthday and shall run from birthday to birthday. In case the applicant is a partnership, such license shall be renewed within the 30 days preceding the birthday of the oldest partner. If the applicant is a corporation, such license shall be renewed within the 30 days preceding the anniversary of the date the corporation was lawfully formed. Renewal shall require the filing of an application for renewal, a renewal bond, and the payment of the annual license fee, but the Labor Commissioner may demand that a new application or new bond be submitted.

If the applicant or licensee desires, in addition, a branch office license, he shall file an application in accordance with the provisions of this section as heretofore set forth.
Filing and License Fees:

Filing Fee: $25.00...plus
Main Office License Fee: $225.00
Total $250.00...plus
Branch Office License Fee (if any) $50.00 for each office location

The DLSE Licensing & Registration Unit offers online payment of fees by accessing http://www.dir.ca.gov/dlse/Online_Payment.html. You will be linked to the third party provider OfficialPayments.com. Payments may be made using your American Express, Discover, Visa and MasterCard credit cards. OfficialPayments.com charges a convenience fee to use its service to make a payment. This fee is separate and distinct from the primary obligation that you are paying. The convenience fee is included in the “Total Payment Amount” line. You will receive an electronic receipt for payments made. Please be sure to print out your receipt as we will not be able to provide a duplicate receipt.

NOTE: Fees cannot be prorated; thus the full amount must be paid irrespective of the length of time remaining before the expiration of the license.

Record Keeping:

Every talent agency must maintain the following records for each artist whom it manages, and these records must be available for inspection during all reasonable hours (California Labor Code sections 1700.26 and 1700.27). These records should be kept for four years:

- The name and address of each artist employing the talent agency
- The amount of fee received from the artist
- The beginning date and the ending date of any contract entered into between the artist and the talent agency
- The name and address of the employer, and the inclusive dates and type of service of each employment engaged in by the artist during his or her term of contract with the agency
- The compensation received by each artist for each engagement
- The amount of fee due the talent agency and the amount of fee paid to it by the artist for each engagement
- A record of all funds received on behalf of an artist and the disposition of the funds

Subagents Ruled Employees:

Should you as a talent agency, employ any subagents to act on your behalf you must, under the law, treat such subagents as bona fide employees. In explanation of this, the following is a partial list of points that distinguish an independent contractor from an employee:

- An independent contractor is legally a self-employed person who is not subject to the common direction and control of his/her principal as to the manner, method, and means of accomplishing his/her work.
- An employee is always subject to direction and control by his/her employer, although the employer need not always exercise such direction and control.

Since a talent agency must always be responsible for and have complete control over the operation of the business, including the manner, method and means by which the work is accomplished, it necessarily follows that he/she cannot have independent contractors working as subagents. Such subagents must instead be bona fide employees.

Furthermore, an independent contractor-subagent would himself/herself be in violation of the law since he/she would be performing the functions of a talent agency but would not be protected by a license. (See California Labor Code section 1700.20).

In line with the foregoing, please be certain that any and all subagents working under your license are treated as bona fide employees and are so designated on your payroll.
If you have employees, you must be insured for workers' compensation as required by California Labor Code section 3700. Proof of such insurance (Certificate of Workers Compensation Insurance) must be issued by the insuring entity and must show the name of the legal entity, the fictitious business name (if any), complete, correct and current physical address as well as the effective date of the Workers' Compensation Insurance policy.
