The Heat Illness Prevention Network (The HIP Network)

The HIP Network is a voluntary public/private partnership established to increase both employers' and employees' awareness of the hazard of heat illness and the importance of heat illness prevention measures to prevent fatalities and serious illnesses in California workplaces. HIP Network members work together to help prevent heat illness in workplaces throughout California in partnership with the Division of Occupational Safety and Health (Cal/OSHA) by providing timely information to employers and employees.

Please refer to the Cal/OSHA guidance on the requirements on our heat illness prevention page, where you can find educational materials on heat illness.
